From The Four Loves (C.S. Lewis)

*To love at all is to be vulnerable. Love anything, and your heart will certainly be wrung and possibly broken. If you want to make sure of keeping it intact, you must give your heart to no one. Not even an animal. Wrap it carefully with hobbies and luxuries, avoid all entanglements and keep it safe in the casket of your selfishness. But in the casket - safe, dark, motionless, airless - it will change. From The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life (Hannah Whitehall Smith)

And can you call it trust, when you have given the saving and keeping of your into the hands of the Lord, if day after day, and night after night, you are spending hours of anxious thought and questioning about the matter? When a believer really trusts anything, he ceases to worry about that thing which he has trusted. And when he worries, it is plain proof that he does not trust.*
